January seems to take its name either from Janua a Gate or entrance, because through January there is made an entrance into the year, as there is through a gate into a house, or from Janus, having two faces, the one looking to the year past & the other to the year to come. This is the eleventh month in order from March being one of them that Numa Pompilius added.

February comes from Februus, that is sacrifice, I sacrifice, because then the Romans offered sacrifice to Pluto, and other infernal gods, for the souls of their Ancestors. This is the twelfth month, being one of the months that Numa Pompilius King of the Romans added; there being but ten before, as Romulus had appointed.

This month Romulus called April either from aperiende which signifies to open, because that now the pores of the earth are opened, or from aphros spume or froth, from when eaphrodite Venus takes her name, who was feigned to be born of the froath of the sea. This is the second month in order from March.

Sun-setting.

June is the fourth month, which Romulus so called from junioribus our juniors or young men, some derive it from Junone Juno the goddess. In this month the Sun arrives to the Coelestial Crabb, the nature of which creature is to go backward or retrograde, and so it may signifie to us the retrogradation or return of the Sun Southward

This month July is the fifth month from March, and therefore was called by Romulus, Quintilis, but afterwards Julius Caesar, the first Monarch of the Romans found that the true Solar year wanted 10 days and about a quarter of its solid completion: and therefore by the advice of Sofigenes he added those 10 days, and so got the honour of having this month called by his name.

Sun-setting.

September is so called because it is the seventh month from March, from Septem the Latine for seven. The Sun now enters Litra signifying a Balance, which may intimate to us the equality of the day and night which are now as it were justly ballanced, being of equal length, and from hence the night more and more our weighs the day.

September 1680.

November is the 9th month from March, & is so called from Novem the Latine for nine. So this month enters Sagittarius signifying a Dart, which may intimate to us the nature of the season, which is not unlikly represented by a dart which is sharp-headed and feathered to cause it to fly swiftly, so we do now often feel sharp frosts, and cold snow representing the feathers.

December being the tenth month from March, is so called from Decem the Latine for ten. This is the last month of our year. The Sun is this month in his perigæe or nearest distance to the Earth: he is likewise now in his Winters Solstice, or at his greatest declination Southward; and does begin by little and little to return to us-ward.

On the 31 of this month is set Silvester P. C. who was a Roman by birth, and a very pious and vertuous man, and a great champion of the Doctrine of Christianity.

The Romanists say, he held the Popedom 23 years, 10 months,
and 11 days; and then died, Anno 333.

The foregoing Tables explained.

THe former Tables perfectly shew the Break of Day, Sun-rising, length of the day, length of the night, setting of the Sun, with continuance of twilight, for the whole year, for the latitude of 52 Degrees, 40 minutes, the use is thus,

In the first, or last Columns, find the moneth, and in the next to them the day, in the which you would know any thing contained in the Tables, if you cannot find the day take the nearest unto it, and right against the same you have the hour and minute of all, under their proper Titles; onely take notice, that the first part of the Table serves for the summer half year, namely from the 10 of March to the 3 of September, and the last part from the 13 of September to the 10 of March: but to make it plain I shall add one example.

The 6 of April I desire to know the time of the day-breaking, sun-rising, and the rest. I find April in the first Column, and in the second the 6 day, and right against the same, under the Column of day-breaking, 2, 42, which sheweth the day breaketh at 2 of the Clock and 42 minutes. In the next 5, 4, which sheweth the sun riseth 4 minutes past 5. In the third is 13 hours 52 minutes the length of the day. In the fourth 10 hours 8 minutes, the length of the night. In the next 6 hours, 56 minutes the time of sun setting. And lastly 9 hours 18 minutes the time when twilight ends: And thus you may proceed at any other time. Onely take notice that if you be removed far from the Latitude for which these Tables were Calculated, either north, or south, you will find some error in them, though they may serve without any notable error for any part of this Kingdom.

Of the Eclipses this year.

There will be but two Eclipses this year, and both those of the nobler Luminary the Sun.

The first will happen on the 20 of March at our 10 a clock in the morning, it will be in the 11 deg. of Aries: it is an Eclipse that happeneth near the South node of the Moon, and will therefore in it self be very great, but it will not appear so to us in these Islands by reason of the Moons parallax. It will be a visible and totall Eclipse unto such as inhabit the South parts of America, the Hely Island, the Cape of S. Vincens &c.

The other Eclipse will be on the 12 day of September at our 8 a clock at night: it can be no way visible to us, because both the Luminaries will be beneath our Horizon before the deliquium begins.

Some Short Rules for Husbandmen and Gardiners.

Set and transplant young Trees and Quicksets every New Moon, from Novem. till Feb. in the same months also Prune and nail up wall fruit, and dig, and dung your ground against the Spring; sow, set, and cut such things as you would have to grow, or bear fruit quickly, in the New Moon if it may conveniently be done: on the contrary such things as you would have to grow slowly or not at all, cut or pluck them up in the wane of the Moon, at which time also fell Timber. Sow round seeds, and such seeds as produce round roots about the Full Moon; sow hardy seeds and pot herbs in Feb. if the weather be mild, but tender seeds not till after the cold winds and frosts are over, gather such fruit and seed as you intend to keep about the Full Moon, in a fair day. Graff at the latter end of Feb. or in March in mild weather.

The

Pond 1680.

The description and use of the foregoing Tables.

THe Tables consist each of four Columns, the first Column at the left hand contains the inches of the vessels diameter at the head or bung from 1 inch to 30. The second Column the Gallons and parts answering to those inches standing right against them. The third Column the inches of the diameters continued from 31 to 60. The fourth Column contains the Gallons and parts answering to those inches. The first Table is for Wine and Oyl measure, as the title shews.

The other Table is for Beer and Ale measure, as you may see by the title, whose Columns are of the same nature with the first, as the title of each Column shews. The use of them is thus:

First measure the diameter at the head of the Vessel and find the number in the Table belonging to it, then measure the diameter at the bung and find the number belonging to it, which must be set down twice or doubled, then add these three numbers together; and multiply the sum by the length of the Vessel from head to head, and you shall have the content: as for example in Wine measure

The Table shews

For 31 inches at the bung.

So you may see that a Vessell of 17 inches diameter at the head, and 31 at the bung, and 40 inches in length contains 99 Gallons and 960 parts of a Gallon which is something above half a Gallon, the Gallon being divided into 1000 parts: and note that the numbers under G. are Gallons, under P. parts. Note also that these Tables contain onely whole inches: and therefore when you light upon parts of an inch, take the proportional difference thus: Suppose a vessel be 17 inches and a half diameter at the head. First look for the number belonging to 17 inches in the Table which will be 320 parts; and then look for the number belonging to 18 inches 367 the number for 18 inches; then take the difference of these two numbers which will be 47, then because there is half an inch above 17 inches take half this difference, which will be 23 and add it to 320 the number belonging to 17 inches: if it was 17 and 1 tenth, then you should take but one tenth of the difference, if but $\frac{1}{4}$ but $\frac{1}{2}$ of the difference, and so for any other parts of an inch, and so is to be done for the diameter at the bung, this proportional difference is to be added to the number belonging to the entire inches, and then you are to proceed as before. And note that what is said of Wine measure is to be regarded for Ale and Beer according to the Table thereof.

Of the Contents of some Liquid Measures.

There are four Measures for Liquid things in most use: the Pint, the Quart, the Pottle, and the Gallon; other greater things being more properly vessels to hold Liquor, than to measure it.

| | | Pints. | Quar. | Pottl. | |

Pond 1680.

Beer and Ale is usually reckoned and sold by Barrels, Kilderkins, and Firkins.

| For Beer Vessels, | | | |
|-------------------|--------|---------|----------|
| | Pints. | Quarts. | Pottles. |
| A Barrel is | 288 | 144 | 72 |
| A Kilderkin is | 144 | 72 | 36 |
| A Firkin is | 72 | 36 | 18 |
| | | | Gall. 9 |

| For Ale Vessels, | | | |
|-------------------|--------|---------|----------|
| | Pints. | Quarts. | Pottles. |
| A Barrel holds | 356 | 128 | 64 |
| A Kilderkin holds | 128 | 64 | 32 |
| A Firkin holds | 64 | 32 | 16 |
| | | | Gall. 8 |

Wine Vessels with their contents are thus.

| | Pints. | Quarts. | Pottles. | Gall. |
|--------------------|--------|---------|----------|-------|
| A Tun is | 2016 | 1008 | 504 | 252 |
| A Pipe or Butt | 1008 | 504 | 252 | 126 |
| A Punchion | 672 | 336 | 168 | 84 |
| Hoghead | 336 | 168 | 84 | 42 |
| A Tierce of a Pipe | 252 | 126 | 63 | 31½ |
| Half Hoghead | 144 | 72 | 36 | 18 |

The proportion of Beer and Wine measure is as 4 to 5, so that 4 Gallons of Beer is 5 Gallons of Wine

Of the Proportion of the weight of some Mettals.
